FIRE CLAIMS BEING PAID

Little Demand for Money Was Made Yesterday.

Fifty-Five Thousand Dollars
Was Paid
Out.

Territory Reaping a Harvest From Taxes—Mostly Chinese Get the Money.

Fifty-five thousand dollars in gold coin of United States was disbursed by the First National Bank for Treasury Agent MacLennan yesterday in payment of fire claims. The bank quit paying claims about 3:30 o'clock, but it was not for any lack of money, but of claimants. Altogether the six hundred claimants are entitled to $300,000 but considerably less than half of them called for their money yesterday. The formalities attendant upon the payment made long delays and there was a crowd about the paying-teller's window all day. In spite of the delay all of the first six hundred claimants who called for their money were settled with, unless there was some dispute over the claim. There was some difficulty over assignments but these were paid when shown to be made out in regular form.

Nearly all of the claimants paid yesterday were Chinese, which was another reason for the length of time required to make a single payment. Each Chinese had to be identified by at least two persons and it was hard for some of the claimants to get the necessary identification. Secretary Poon of the Consulate performed this work for many.

The first award was paid to F. J. Wilhelm, his claim being for $329.23. The largest claim paid was that of Wong Wo Tai who received about $14,000.

The Territory is reaping a harvest also from the payment of the fire claims in the collection of back taxes. Many of the Chinese have not paid their taxes for three years, on the plea that they lost everything by the plague fire. Deputy Assessor Riggs was on the lookout for income tax delinquents and the poll tax collector was also on hand. Both collected considerable money.

About thirty garnishee suits were filed yesterday against claimants, mostly Japanese, who had money coming to them, and they were served immediately on those who were paid.

The remainder of the six hundred claims will probably be paid Monday.

Dr. Warner Speaks.

Dr. Lucien C. Warner, the prominent New York business man whose address at the Y. M. C. A. banquet Thursday night was so much enjoyed by more than half a hundred of the workers, will speak at the 4 o'clock meeting in Association Hall today on the subject: "The Young Man Whom Christ Loved." Women as well as men are invited and it is hoped that special music may be secured.

A HONOLULU BORN ACTRESS

Alice Montague-West, one of the most popular women in vaudeville, died at Roosevelt Hospital in this city at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon last, after an illness of less than two days. She was apparently in the best of health and spirits up to Thursday, when she was suddenly stricken with an illness that developed into a hemorrhage of the brain, which caused her death.

Mrs. West was the wife of J. Royer West, and with her husband formed the vaudeville team of Montague and West, refined musical comedy sketch artists. For twelve years they toured the country, appearing in the best vaudeville houses, and as a special feature with plays and combinations. Some of the companies they appeared with were Weber and Fields, Gus Hill's, Mathews and Bulger (two seasons), Tuxedo, Joe Ott and several others. Mrs. West retired at the end of last season. Her last appearance was at the Gaiety Theater, Brooklyn, in May, 1902, with the Jolly Grass Widows company, of which she and her husband had been members during the season.
